Bishop Santarsiero Rosa deeply appreciated the Oblate Sisters' charism of promoting vocations to the Priesthood and supporting priests spiritually and in their ministry. Thus he invited the Oblate Sisters to begin a foundation in his diocese of Huacho, Peru in 2009.

The parish where the Sisters serve has 10,000 families with only one pastor serving twenty-one substations. There is a great need for Evangelization. Most of the people suffer from spiritual and physical poverty.

Currently the Sisters teach in the diocesan seminary, catechize, conduct Communion Services at the parish substations, and assist the pastor with preparing the altar for Holy Mass by providing clean linens, and other necessary accoutrements.
